Non-qualified dividends, including short-term capital gain distributions, are subject to federal income tax at ordinary rates. Qualified dividends, however, may be eligible for 15% or zero capital gains rates. Capital gains distributions received from regulated investment companies are taxable at long-term capital gain rates. Return of capital distributions, also known as non-dividend distributions, are not subject to current federal income tax. Instead, the tax cost basis of each shareholder receiving a return of capital distribution is reduced by the amount of the distribution.
